MUSIC CENTER DEDICATED

The East Carolina University Music Buildings complex was formally dedicated on May 16 as the A. J. Fletcher Music Center. Recognition was given Mr. A. J. Fletcher, WRAL-TV's Chief Executive Officer, for his contribution to music in the state and nation through his National Opera Company which has performed before more than one-million North Carolina School children. Many State leaders attended the function, along with members of Mr. Fletcher's family and friends. The ceremonies were presided over by University President Leo Jenkins. Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher are shown in front of the Center.

FLYING NUN RETURNS

Sally Field, as THE FLYING NUN, will return to TV-5 each week-day, at 7:00 PM. This popular program will be remembered as a network hit several seasons back on ABC-TV. Other changes, beginning in June, will be found on the program schedule inside.

CITIZENSHIP AWARD MADE

The A. J. Fletcher Educational and Opera Foundation, in cooperation with WRAL-TV, presented a citizenship award in May to Patricia Ann Finch, of Pine Forest High School, Fayetteville. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Finch of Fayetteville. This was one of ten awards to be given outstanding seniors in the WRAL-TV coverage area. Recipients are chosen on character, church activity, scholarship, community involvement and appreciation of the free enterprise system. David Witherspoon, of WRAL-TV made the presentation.
